Lawful Authority for Publicly Proclaiming the Christian Faith

Public proclamation of the gospel of Jesus Christ is a command to and privilege of every Christian, and includes preaching, distribution of materials and discussion with those willing to receive such materials and discourse, (collectively known as proselytizing).

Proselytizing in public places is completely lawful in the Commonwealth of Australia including the State of Tasmania by the highest laws in the land:

- The common law has established this right. [1]
- The Constitutions of the Commonwealth of Australia [2]
- and the State of Tasmania [3] guarantee this right.
- The High Court of Australia has confirmed this right. [4]
- The International Covenant on Civil & Political Rights (ICCPR) to which Australia is a signatory, also supports this right. [5]

Lawful Authority for Publicly Proclaiming the Christian Faith

Public proclamation of the gospel of Jesus Christ is a command to and privilege of every Christian, and includes preaching, distribution of materials and discussion with those willing to receive such materials and discourse, (collectively known as proselytizing).

Proselytizing in public places is completely lawful in the Commonwealth of Australia including the State of Tasmania by the highest laws in the land:

- The common law has established this right. [1]
- The Constitutions of the Commonwealth of Australia [2]
- and the State of Tasmania [3] guarantee this right.
- The High Court of Australia has confirmed this right. [4]
- The International Covenant on Civil & Political Rights (ICCPR) to which Australia is a signatory, also supports this right. [5]

Lawful Authority for Publicly Proclaiming the Christian Faith

Public proclamation of the gospel of Jesus Christ is a command to and privilege of every Christian, and includes preaching, distribution of materials and discussion with those willing to receive such materials and discourse, (collectively known as proselytizing).

Proselytizing in public places is completely lawful in the Commonwealth of Australia including the State of Tasmania by the highest laws in the land:

- The common law has established this right. [1]
- The Constitutions of the Commonwealth of Australia [2]
- and the State of Tasmania [3] guarantee this right.
- The High Court of Australia has confirmed this right. [4]
- The International Covenant on Civil & Political Rights (ICCPR) to which Australia is a signatory, also supports this right. [5]

Lawful Authority for Publicly Proclaiming the Christian Faith

Public proclamation of the gospel of Jesus Christ is a command to and privilege of every Christian, and includes preaching, distribution of materials and discussion with those willing to receive such materials and discourse, (collectively known as proselytizing).

Proselytizing in public places is completely lawful in the Commonwealth of Australia including the State of Tasmania by the highest laws in the land:

- The common law has established this right. [1]
- The Constitutions of the Commonwealth of Australia [2]
- and the State of Tasmania [3] guarantee this right.
- The High Court of Australia has confirmed this right. [4]
- The International Covenant on Civil & Political Rights (ICCPR) to which Australia is a signatory, also supports this right. [5]

Lawful Authority for Publicly Proclaiming the Christian Faith

Public proclamation of the gospel of Jesus Christ is a command to and privilege of every Christian, and includes preaching, distribution of materials and discussion with those willing to receive such materials and discourse, (collectively known as proselytizing).

Proselytizing in public places is completely lawful in the Commonwealth of Australia including the State of Tasmania by the highest laws in the land:

- The common law has established this right. [1]
- The Constitutions of the Commonwealth of Australia [2]
- and the State of Tasmania [3] guarantee this right.
- The High Court of Australia has confirmed this right. [4]
- The International Covenant on Civil & Political Rights (ICCPR) to which Australia is a signatory, also supports this right. [5]

Lawful Authority for Publicly Proclaiming the Christian Faith

Public proclamation of the gospel of Jesus Christ is a command to and privilege of every Christian, and includes preaching, distribution of materials and discussion with those willing to receive such materials and discourse, (collectively known as proselytizing).

Proselytizing in public places is completely lawful in the Commonwealth of Australia including the State of Tasmania by the highest laws in the land:

- The common law has established this right. [1]
- The Constitutions of the Commonwealth of Australia [2]
- and the State of Tasmania [3] guarantee this right.
- The High Court of Australia has confirmed this right. [4]
- The International Covenant on Civil & Political Rights (ICCPR) to which Australia is a signatory, also supports this right. [5]

Lawful Authority for Publicly Proclaiming the Christian Faith

Public proclamation of the gospel of Jesus Christ is a command to and privilege of every Christian, and includes preaching, distribution of materials and discussion with those willing to receive such materials and discourse, (collectively known as proselytizing).

Proselytizing in public places is completely lawful in the Commonwealth of Australia including the State of Tasmania by the highest laws in the land:

- The common law has established this right. [1]
- The Constitutions of the Commonwealth of Australia [2]
- and the State of Tasmania [3] guarantee this right.
- The High Court of Australia has confirmed this right. [4]
- The International Covenant on Civil & Political Rights (ICCPR) to which Australia is a signatory, also supports this right. [5]

Lawful Authority for Publicly Proclaiming the Christian Faith

Public proclamation of the gospel of Jesus Christ is a command to and privilege of every Christian, and includes preaching, distribution of materials and discussion with those willing to receive such materials and discourse, (collectively known as proselytizing).

Proselytizing in public places is completely lawful in the Commonwealth of Australia including the State of Tasmania by the highest laws in the land:

- The common law has established this right. [1]
- The Constitutions of the Commonwealth of Australia [2]
- and the State of Tasmania [3] guarantee this right.
- The High Court of Australia has confirmed this right. [4]
- The International Covenant on Civil & Political Rights (ICCPR) to which Australia is a signatory, also supports this right. [5]

References

1 Common law is largely based upon the Authorized King James Holy Bible, Crown Copyright 1611: foundational to both Common Law and Civic Law within the Commonwealth and all nations that have inherited England's common law.

2 Constitution of the Commonwealth of Australia, s 116 The Commonwealth shall not make any law for establishing any religion, or for imposing any religious observance, or for prohibiting the free exercise of any religion…

3 Tasmanian State Constitution section 46 part 1 Religious Freedom Constitution Act 1934 (Tas) s 46 (1) Freedom of conscience and the free profession and practice of religion are, subject to public order and morality, guaranteed to every citizen.

4 High Court Cases establishing Freedom of Speech on political matters, which also includes matters of religious nature per full court of the Federal Court, including French C,J in Evans v State of New South Wales (2008) 168 FCR: Lange v Australia Broadcasting Corporation (1997) 189 CLR 520 at 567 Coleman v Power (2004) 220 CLR 1 at 50, 51, 77-78 Unions NSW v New South Wales (2013) 252 CLR 530.

High Court Case confirming publicly preaching the gospel: Attorney-General (SA) v Corporation of the City of Adelaide [2013] HCA 3

5 ICCPR Article 18

1. Everyone shall have the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion. This right shall include freedom to have or to adopt a religion or belief of his choice, and freedom, either individually or in community with others and in public or private, to manifest his religion or belief in worship, observance, practice and teaching.
2. No one shall be subject to coercion which would impair his freedom to have or to adopt a religion or belief of his choice.
3. Freedom to manifest one's religion or beliefs may be subject only to such limitations as are prescribed by law and are necessary to protect public safety, order, health, or morals or the fundamental rights and freedoms of others.
4. The States Parties to the present Covenant undertake to have respect for the liberty of parents and, when applicable, legal guardians to ensure the religious and moral education of their children in conformity with their own convictions.

ICCPR Article 19

1. Everyone shall have the right to hold opinions without interference.
2. Everyone shall have the right to freedom of expression; this right shall include freedom to seek, receive and impart information and ideas of all kinds, regardless of frontiers, either orally, in writing or in print, in the form of art, or through any other media of his choice.
3. The exercise of the rights provided for in paragraph 2 of this article carries with it special duties and responsibilities. It may therefore be subject to certain restrictions, but these shall only be such as are provided by law and are necessary:
   (a) For respect of the rights or reputations of others;
   (b) For the protection of national security or of public order (ordre public), or of public health or morals.

Launceston CityProm Pavement Art Code of Practice:

4. Drawing directly onto the pavement may only occur where:
a. The material is removable by water and does not leave a residue; and
b. The surface of the pavement is non-porous material, such as bitumen or concrete.

References

1 Common law is largely based upon the Authorized King James Holy Bible, Crown Copyright 1611: foundational to both Common Law and Civic Law within the Commonwealth and all nations that have inherited England's common law.

2 Constitution of the Commonwealth of Australia, s 116 The Commonwealth shall not make any law for establishing any religion, or for imposing any religious observance, or for prohibiting the free exercise of any religion…

3 Tasmanian State Constitution section 46 part 1 Religious Freedom Constitution Act 1934 (Tas) s 46 (1) Freedom of conscience and the free profession and practice of religion are, subject to public order and morality, guaranteed to every citizen.

4 High Court Cases establishing Freedom of Speech on political matters, which also includes matters of religious nature per full court of the Federal Court, including French C,J in Evans v State of New South Wales (2008) 168 FCR: Lange v Australia Broadcasting Corporation (1997) 189 CLR 520 at 567 Coleman v Power (2004) 220 CLR 1 at 50, 51, 77-78 Unions NSW v New South Wales (2013) 252 CLR 530.

High Court Case confirming publicly preaching the gospel: Attorney-General (SA) v Corporation of the City of Adelaide [2013] HCA 3

5 ICCPR Article 18

1. Everyone shall have the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion. This right shall include freedom to have or to adopt a religion or belief of his choice, and freedom, either individually or in community with others and in public or private, to manifest his religion or belief in worship, observance, practice and teaching.
2. No one shall be subject to coercion which would impair his freedom to have or to adopt a religion or belief of his choice.
3. Freedom to manifest one's religion or beliefs may be subject only to such limitations as are prescribed by law and are necessary to protect public safety, order, health, or morals or the fundamental rights and freedoms of others.
4. The States Parties to the present Covenant undertake to have respect for the liberty of parents and, when applicable, legal guardians to ensure the religious and moral education of their children in conformity with their own convictions.

ICCPR Article 19

1. Everyone shall have the right to hold opinions without interference.
2. Everyone shall have the right to freedom of expression; this right shall include freedom to seek, receive and impart information and ideas of all kinds, regardless of frontiers, either orally, in writing or in print, in the form of art, or through any other media of his choice.
3. The exercise of the rights provided for in paragraph 2 of this article carries with it special duties and responsibilities. It may therefore be subject to certain restrictions, but these shall only be such as are provided by law and are necessary:
   (a) For respect of the rights or reputations of others;
   (b) For the protection of national security or of public order (ordre public), or of public health or morals.

Launceston CityProm Pavement Art Code of Practice:

4. Drawing directly onto the pavement may only occur where:
a. The material is removable by water and does not leave a residue; and
b. The surface of the pavement is non-porous material, such as bitumen or concrete.

References

1 Common law is largely based upon the Authorized King James Holy Bible, Crown Copyright 1611: foundational to both Common Law and Civic Law within the Commonwealth and all nations that have inherited England's common law.

2 Constitution of the Commonwealth of Australia, s 116 The Commonwealth shall not make any law for establishing any religion, or for imposing any religious observance, or for prohibiting the free exercise of any religion…

3 Tasmanian State Constitution section 46 part 1 Religious Freedom Constitution Act 1934 (Tas) s 46 (1) Freedom of conscience and the free profession and practice of religion are, subject to public order and morality, guaranteed to every citizen.

4 High Court Cases establishing Freedom of Speech on political matters, which also includes matters of religious nature per full court of the Federal Court, including French C,J in Evans v State of New South Wales (2008) 168 FCR: Lange v Australia Broadcasting Corporation (1997) 189 CLR 520 at 567 Coleman v Power (2004) 220 CLR 1 at 50, 51, 77-78 Unions NSW v New South Wales (2013) 252 CLR 530.

High Court Case confirming publicly preaching the gospel: Attorney-General (SA) v Corporation of the City of Adelaide [2013] HCA 3

5 ICCPR Article 18

1. Everyone shall have the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion. This right shall include freedom to have or to adopt a religion or belief of his choice, and freedom, either individually or in community with others and in public or private, to manifest his religion or belief in worship, observance, practice and teaching.
2. No one shall be subject to coercion which would impair his freedom to have or to adopt a religion or belief of his choice.
3. Freedom to manifest one's religion or beliefs may be subject only to such limitations as are prescribed by law and are necessary to protect public safety, order, health, or morals or the fundamental rights and freedoms of others.
4. The States Parties to the present Covenant undertake to have respect for the liberty of parents and, when applicable, legal guardians to ensure the religious and moral education of their children in conformity with their own convictions.

ICCPR Article 19

1. Everyone shall have the right to hold opinions without interference.
2. Everyone shall have the right to freedom of expression; this right shall include freedom to seek, receive and impart information and ideas of all kinds, regardless of frontiers, either orally, in writing or in print, in the form of art, or through any other media of his choice.
3. The exercise of the rights provided for in paragraph 2 of this article carries with it special duties and responsibilities. It may therefore be subject to certain restrictions, but these shall only be such as are provided by law and are necessary:
   (a) For respect of the rights or reputations of others;
   (b) For the protection of national security or of public order (ordre public), or of public health or morals.

Launceston CityProm Pavement Art Code of Practice:

4. Drawing directly onto the pavement may only occur where:
a. The material is removable by water and does not leave a residue; and
b. The surface of the pavement is non-porous material, such as bitumen or concrete.

References

1 Common law is largely based upon the Authorized King James Holy Bible, Crown Copyright 1611: foundational to both Common Law and Civic Law within the Commonwealth and all nations that have inherited England's common law.

2 Constitution of the Commonwealth of Australia, s 116 The Commonwealth shall not make any law for establishing any religion, or for imposing any religious observance, or for prohibiting the free exercise of any religion…

3 Tasmanian State Constitution section 46 part 1 Religious Freedom Constitution Act 1934 (Tas) s 46 (1) Freedom of conscience and the free profession and practice of religion are, subject to public order and morality, guaranteed to every citizen.

4 High Court Cases establishing Freedom of Speech on political matters, which also includes matters of religious nature per full court of the Federal Court, including French C,J in Evans v State of New South Wales (2008) 168 FCR: Lange v Australia Broadcasting Corporation (1997) 189 CLR 520 at 567 Coleman v Power (2004) 220 CLR 1 at 50, 51, 77-78 Unions NSW v New South Wales (2013) 252 CLR 530.

High Court Case confirming publicly preaching the gospel: Attorney-General (SA) v Corporation of the City of Adelaide [2013] HCA 3

5 ICCPR Article 18

1. Everyone shall have the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion. This right shall include freedom to have or to adopt a religion or belief of his choice, and freedom, either individually or in community with others and in public or private, to manifest his religion or belief in worship, observance, practice and teaching.
2. No one shall be subject to coercion which would impair his freedom to have or to adopt a religion or belief of his choice.
3. Freedom to manifest one's religion or beliefs may be subject only to such limitations as are prescribed by law and are necessary to protect public safety, order, health, or morals or the fundamental rights and freedoms of others.
4. The States Parties to the present Covenant undertake to have respect for the liberty of parents and, when applicable, legal guardians to ensure the religious and moral education of their children in conformity with their own convictions.

ICCPR Article 19

1. Everyone shall have the right to hold opinions without interference.
2. Everyone shall have the right to freedom of expression; this right shall include freedom to seek, receive and impart information and ideas of all kinds, regardless of frontiers, either orally, in writing or in print, in the form of art, or through any other media of his choice.
3. The exercise of the rights provided for in paragraph 2 of this article carries with it special duties and responsibilities. It may therefore be subject to certain restrictions, but these shall only be such as are provided by law and are necessary:
   (a) For respect of the rights or reputations of others;
   (b) For the protection of national security or of public order (ordre public), or of public health or morals.

Launceston CityProm Pavement Art Code of Practice:

4. Drawing directly onto the pavement may only occur where:
a. The material is removable by water and does not leave a residue; and
b. The surface of the pavement is non-porous material, such as bitumen or concrete.

References

1 Common law is largely based upon the Authorized King James Holy Bible, Crown Copyright 1611: foundational to both Common Law and Civic Law within the Commonwealth and all nations that have inherited England's common law.

2 Constitution of the Commonwealth of Australia, s 116 The Commonwealth shall not make any law for establishing any religion, or for imposing any religious observance, or for prohibiting the free exercise of any religion…

3 Tasmanian State Constitution section 46 part 1 Religious Freedom Constitution Act 1934 (Tas) s 46 (1) Freedom of conscience and the free profession and practice of religion are, subject to public order and morality, guaranteed to every citizen.

4 High Court Cases establishing Freedom of Speech on political matters, which also includes matters of religious nature per full court of the Federal Court, including French C,J in Evans v State of New South Wales (2008) 168 FCR: Lange v Australia Broadcasting Corporation (1997) 189 CLR 520 at 567 Coleman v Power (2004) 220 CLR 1 at 50, 51, 77-78 Unions NSW v New South Wales (2013) 252 CLR 530.

High Court Case confirming publicly preaching the gospel: Attorney-General (SA) v Corporation of the City of Adelaide [2013] HCA 3

5 ICCPR Article 18

1. Everyone shall have the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion. This right shall include freedom to have or to adopt a religion or belief of his choice, and freedom, either individually or in community with others and in public or private, to manifest his religion or belief in worship, observance, practice and teaching.
2. No one shall be subject to coercion which would impair his freedom to have or to adopt a religion or belief of his choice.
3. Freedom to manifest one's religion or beliefs may be subject only to such limitations as are prescribed by law and are necessary to protect public safety, order, health, or morals or the fundamental rights and freedoms of others.
4. The States Parties to the present Covenant undertake to have respect for the liberty of parents and, when applicable, legal guardians to ensure the religious and moral education of their children in conformity with their own convictions.

ICCPR Article 19

1. Everyone shall have the right to hold opinions without interference.
2. Everyone shall have the right to freedom of expression; this right shall include freedom to seek, receive and impart information and ideas of all kinds, regardless of frontiers, either orally, in writing or in print, in the form of art, or through any other media of his choice.
3. The exercise of the rights provided for in paragraph 2 of this article carries with it special duties and responsibilities. It may therefore be subject to certain restrictions, but these shall only be such as are provided by law and are necessary:
   (a) For respect of the rights or reputations of others;
   (b) For the protection of national security or of public order (ordre public), or of public health or morals.

Launceston CityProm Pavement Art Code of Practice:

4. Drawing directly onto the pavement may only occur where:
a. The material is removable by water and does not leave a residue; and
b. The surface of the pavement is non-porous material, such as bitumen or concrete.

References

1 Common law is largely based upon the Authorized King James Holy Bible, Crown Copyright 1611: foundational to both Common Law and Civic Law within the Commonwealth and all nations that have inherited England's common law.

2 Constitution of the Commonwealth of Australia, s 116 The Commonwealth shall not make any law for establishing any religion, or for imposing any religious observance, or for prohibiting the free exercise of any religion…

3 Tasmanian State Constitution section 46 part 1 Religious Freedom Constitution Act 1934 (Tas) s 46 (1) Freedom of conscience and the free profession and practice of religion are, subject to public order and morality, guaranteed to every citizen.

4 High Court Cases establishing Freedom of Speech on political matters, which also includes matters of religious nature per full court of the Federal Court, including French C,J in Evans v State of New South Wales (2008) 168 FCR: Lange v Australia Broadcasting Corporation (1997) 189 CLR 520 at 567 Coleman v Power (2004) 220 CLR 1 at 50, 51, 77-78 Unions NSW v New South Wales (2013) 252 CLR 530.

High Court Case confirming publicly preaching the gospel: Attorney-General (SA) v Corporation of the City of Adelaide [2013] HCA 3

5 ICCPR Article 18

1. Everyone shall have the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion. This right shall include freedom to have or to adopt a religion or belief of his choice, and freedom, either individually or in community with others and in public or private, to manifest his religion or belief in worship, observance, practice and teaching.
2. No one shall be subject to coercion which would impair his freedom to have or to adopt a religion or belief of his choice.
3. Freedom to manifest one's religion or beliefs may be subject only to such limitations as are prescribed by law and are necessary to protect public safety, order, health, or morals or the fundamental rights and freedoms of others.
4. The States Parties to the present Covenant undertake to have respect for the liberty of parents and, when applicable, legal guardians to ensure the religious and moral education of their children in conformity with their own convictions.

ICCPR Article 19

1. Everyone shall have the right to hold opinions without interference.
2. Everyone shall have the right to freedom of expression; this right shall include freedom to seek, receive and impart information and ideas of all kinds, regardless of frontiers, either orally, in writing or in print, in the form of art, or through any other media of his choice.
3. The exercise of the rights provided for in paragraph 2 of this article carries with it special duties and responsibilities. It may therefore be subject to certain restrictions, but these shall only be such as are provided by law and are necessary:
   (a) For respect of the rights or reputations of others;
   (b) For the protection of national security or of public order (ordre public), or of public health or morals.

Launceston CityProm Pavement Art Code of Practice:

4. Drawing directly onto the pavement may only occur where:
a. The material is removable by water and does not leave a residue; and
b. The surface of the pavement is non-porous material, such as bitumen or concrete.

References

1 Common law is largely based upon the Authorized King James Holy Bible, Crown Copyright 1611: foundational to both Common Law and Civic Law within the Commonwealth and all nations that have inherited England's common law.

2 Constitution of the Commonwealth of Australia, s 116 The Commonwealth shall not make any law for establishing any religion, or for imposing any religious observance, or for prohibiting the free exercise of any religion…

3 Tasmanian State Constitution section 46 part 1 Religious Freedom Constitution Act 1934 (Tas) s 46 (1) Freedom of conscience and the free profession and practice of religion are, subject to public order and morality, guaranteed to every citizen.

4 High Court Cases establishing Freedom of Speech on political matters, which also includes matters of religious nature per full court of the Federal Court, including French C,J in Evans v State of New South Wales (2008) 168 FCR: Lange v Australia Broadcasting Corporation (1997) 189 CLR 520 at 567 Coleman v Power (2004) 220 CLR 1 at 50, 51, 77-78 Unions NSW v New South Wales (2013) 252 CLR 530.

High Court Case confirming publicly preaching the gospel: Attorney-General (SA) v Corporation of the City of Adelaide [2013] HCA 3

5 ICCPR Article 18

1. Everyone shall have the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion. This right shall include freedom to have or to adopt a religion or belief of his choice, and freedom, either individually or in community with others and in public or private, to manifest his religion or belief in worship, observance, practice and teaching.
2. No one shall be subject to coercion which would impair his freedom to have or to adopt a religion or belief of his choice.
3. Freedom to manifest one's religion or beliefs may be subject only to such limitations as are prescribed by law and are necessary to protect public safety, order, health, or morals or the fundamental rights and freedoms of others.
4. The States Parties to the present Covenant undertake to have respect for the liberty of parents and, when applicable, legal guardians to ensure the religious and moral education of their children in conformity with their own convictions.

ICCPR Article 19

1. Everyone shall have the right to hold opinions without interference.
2. Everyone shall have the right to freedom of expression; this right shall include freedom to seek, receive and impart information and ideas of all kinds, regardless of frontiers, either orally, in writing or in print, in the form of art, or through any other media of his choice.
3. The exercise of the rights provided for in paragraph 2 of this article carries with it special duties and responsibilities. It may therefore be subject to certain restrictions, but these shall only be such as are provided by law and are necessary:
   (a) For respect of the rights or reputations of others;
   (b) For the protection of national security or of public order (ordre public), or of public health or morals.

Launceston CityProm Pavement Art Code of Practice:

4. Drawing directly onto the pavement may only occur where:
a. The material is removable by water and does not leave a residue; and
b. The surface of the pavement is non-porous material, such as bitumen or concrete.

References

1 Common law is largely based upon the Authorized King James Holy Bible, Crown Copyright 1611: foundational to both Common Law and Civic Law within the Commonwealth and all nations that have inherited England's common law.

2 Constitution of the Commonwealth of Australia, s 116 The Commonwealth shall not make any law for establishing any religion, or for imposing any religious observance, or for prohibiting the free exercise of any religion…

3 Tasmanian State Constitution section 46 part 1 Religious Freedom Constitution Act 1934 (Tas) s 46 (1) Freedom of conscience and the free profession and practice of religion are, subject to public order and morality, guaranteed to every citizen.

4 High Court Cases establishing Freedom of Speech on political matters, which also includes matters of religious nature per full court of the Federal Court, including French C,J in Evans v State of New South Wales (2008) 168 FCR: Lange v Australia Broadcasting Corporation (1997) 189 CLR 520 at 567 Coleman v Power (2004) 220 CLR 1 at 50, 51, 77-78 Unions NSW v New South Wales (2013) 252 CLR 530.

High Court Case confirming publicly preaching the gospel: Attorney-General (SA) v Corporation of the City of Adelaide [2013] HCA 3

5 ICCPR Article 18

1. Everyone shall have the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion. This right shall include freedom to have or to adopt a religion or belief of his choice, and freedom, either individually or in community with others and in public or private, to manifest his religion or belief in worship, observance, practice and teaching.
2. No one shall be subject to coercion which would impair his freedom to have or to adopt a religion or belief of his choice.
3. Freedom to manifest one's religion or beliefs may be subject only to such limitations as are prescribed by law and are necessary to protect public safety, order, health, or morals or the fundamental rights and freedoms of others.
4. The States Parties to the present Covenant undertake to have respect for the liberty of parents and, when applicable, legal guardians to ensure the religious and moral education of their children in conformity with their own convictions.

ICCPR Article 19

1. Everyone shall have the right to hold opinions without interference.
2. Everyone shall have the right to freedom of expression; this right shall include freedom to seek, receive and impart information and ideas of all kinds, regardless of frontiers, either orally, in writing or in print, in the form of art, or through any other media of his choice.
3. The exercise of the rights provided for in paragraph 2 of this article carries with it special duties and responsibilities. It may therefore be subject to certain restrictions, but these shall only be such as are provided by law and are necessary:
   (a) For respect of the rights or reputations of others;
   (b) For the protection of national security or of public order (ordre public), or of public health or morals.

Launceston CityProm Pavement Art Code of Practice:

4. Drawing directly onto the pavement may only occur where:
a. The material is removable by water and does not leave a residue; and
b. The surface of the pavement is non-porous material, such as bitumen or concrete.